Doctor's Attestation for Academic Research

May 16, 2025

This is to confirm that a representative from a student project group working on a health-related application concerning Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease (COPD) approached me for professional insights and validation of medical parameters associated with the disease.

During our discussion, the representative shared the group's intended use of clinical data points such as patient age, smoking history, respiratory symptoms, and other relevant factors. I reviewed the parameters and found them consistent with commonly accepted practices in preliminary COPD assessment and risk evaluation.

I understand that this consultation was conducted as part of the group's academic or research-oriented software project aimed at public awareness, health tracking, and educational support.
